THE FINAL PARADE of the season was given by the club, the ranks being formed at about half past six. Something like two hundred members of the club and citizens were in line, and the route extended over several of the more populous streets. The residences of Re publicans were very generally and very guily illuminated, and various colored fires were burned at frequent intervals by those living along the line of march and at the wigwam. The glare of ascending ockets a so lighted up the Garden Spot While the procession was out upon the line of march a number of the citizens availed themselves of the opportunity to partake of the feast so bountifully spread for this feature of the entertainment were complete and admirable. The platform wigwam, and a temporary kitchen built as oysters and coffee were cooked in a manor which did credit to the ladies concerned, and gave eminent satisfaction to their numerous and hungry guessa.

THE ARRANGEMENTS

As Dr. Todd remarked to an INVELLIGENCER reporter, "It was nothing common." Several hundred citizens partook of the bospitality of the fadies, and by the time these were through the club had returned, and were seated in a body at the two tables, which extended the entire length of the hall. Jake modestly protested, but the crowd sisted, and finally the distinguished Republican missionary to the back counties was taken up from the floor and carried bodily to the stand improvised at one end of the tables. He begged off, however, on the plea that there was too much noise. He promised after all had had their full of substantials, to give them a feast of lighter character by way of dessert.

Mr. Sam Hildreth, President of the club, proposed a vote of thanks to the ladies, which was adopted with a dealening vim, and followed by three rousing cheers, and a "tiger" so wild as to call forth the exclamation, "Go chain that tiger down."

was then called for with such vigor as to admit of no denial, and in response made a characteristic speech, which was received with great favor, and won the doctor many new friends. He interiarded is remarks with several anecdotes, narrated in the well known inimitable atyle, which convulsed the audience with laugher.

Then the glee club sang several other songs, and after the audience bad united in susying the "Sweet Bye-and-Bye," the sacembly dispersed.

Altogether the affair was one of the most agreeable and successful entertain ments ever gotten up in the city. Everybody was delighted with the project and the way it was carried out. There must have been unwards of five hundred persons at the tables at various times, and or both was the tables at various times, and so bountifully had the ladies provided that the tables at various times, and so both first the was more than enough for all.

ANTH NA. Raised from Death.

In the early part of the winter of 1874 my mother, Mrs. Jane Hownstain, was taken very sick with spasmodic asthma and lay some weeks in a helplers condition nd died, as we believed. I had sent for r. J. E. Grant and he came as Mrs. Jane Bailev was tying up her j. ws. The doctor placed his hand on my mother's heart and said she was not dead, not to tie up her j. ws. He went away and brought some jiws. He went away and brought some grops and gave them to her on a handkerchief, holding it closely over her nose and mouth. In about five minutes she spoke and said, "I am moch easier," and in a hart time was able to go around. We were all very much surprised, indeed frightened. She will never be farther gone when she is dead than she was at the time the doctor saw her. My mother is now sightly-eight years of age, and well as a woman of her age can be.

Signed: Mrs. Caroline Stewart, Mrs. Cella F. Stewart, Mrs. Jane Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. George G. Green, Mrs. Nina Z-ff, Mrs. Aona Browo, Mrs. Oarrie Clark, 27 Bolivar street, Cleveland, Ohio; January, 1876.
